1. Purpose and Relationship

This Agreement records the organization's request to participate in the KIA Charity platform. Participation is intended to support transparent, blockchain-verifiable charitable giving and related platform services. Approval by KIA Charity is a platform participation decision only. It is not a government registration, license, accreditation, tax determination, legal certification, or endorsement of the organization.

2. Organization Representations

- The organization confirms that the information supplied in its application is accurate and that the person signing this Agreement is authorized to act for the organization.
- The organization is responsible for maintaining any registrations, licenses, permissions, tax status, or legal authority required for its activities in the jurisdictions where it operates.
- The organization will promptly update material information that becomes inaccurate or outdated.

3. Donation Wallets and Non-Custodial Transactions

- The organization may provide one or more public blockchain wallet addresses for review and use on the platform.
- The organization is solely responsible for controlling and securing its wallets, private keys, seed phrases, devices, and signing credentials.
- KIA Charity will never require the organization to provide a private key, seed phrase, or wallet password.
- Blockchain transactions are generally irreversible. The organization is responsible for verifying wallet addresses and transaction details.
- Donations are processed through blockchain transactions according to the applicable smart-contract and platform mechanics. KIA Charity does not take custody of an organization's private keys.

4. Public Profile, Website and Social Accounts

The organization authorizes KIA Charity to display approved public information supplied by the organization, which may include its name, logo, mission description, country or region, official website, verified social accounts, approved donation wallets, active fundraising events, and platform verification status. KIA Charity may request evidence to verify websites, social accounts, wallets, or other public claims before displaying them as verified.

5. Events and Fundraising Requests

An approved Charity Account may request fundraising events or campaigns. Submission of an event request does not guarantee approval. The organization is responsible for the accuracy of event descriptions, goals, duration, beneficiary information, and other materials it supplies. KIA Charity may request clarification, additional documentation, modification, or removal of an event.

6. Security and Account Responsibilities

- The organization will protect account credentials and use available security controls, including two-factor authentication when required.
- The organization will notify KIA Charity promptly if it suspects unauthorized account access, compromised credentials, or an incorrect or compromised donation wallet.
- The organization is responsible for the actions of persons it authorizes to use its Charity Account.

7. Review, Suspension and Removal

KIA Charity may approve, reject, request more information about, suspend, restrict, or remove an organization or its public content when reasonably necessary for platform security, compliance, accuracy, fraud prevention, protection of donors or users, violation of platform rules, or material concerns regarding the organization's information or activity. Where appropriate, the organization may be asked to provide additional information before a decision is made.

8. Records and Blockchain Transparency

The organization understands that public blockchain transaction records may remain publicly accessible independently of the KIA Charity platform. Platform receipts, reports, and verification tools may reference blockchain transaction information and organization-provided metadata. The organization should maintain its own accounting, tax, regulatory, and donor records as required by applicable law.

9. No Professional Advice

KIA Charity platform information and tools do not constitute legal, tax, accounting, financial, regulatory, or investment advice. Organizations should obtain independent professional advice when needed.

10. Agreement and Certification

By signing below, the authorized representative confirms that they have read this Agreement, are authorized to submit it for the organization, and agree that the organization will participate subject to this Agreement and the applicable KIA Charity platform terms and policies. Electronic completion or signature of this document may be accepted where permitted by the platform.
